The Kidnapped Christmas Bride (Taming of the Sheenans Book 3) By Jane Porter

All he wants is a Christmas memory...

Trey Sheenan has cultivated his reputation as Marietta's resident bad boy, until one day he lets things go too far and he loses everything—his freedom, his fiance McKenna Douglas, and his infant son.

McKenna has loved Trey since they were kids, but she's had enough. When Trey is sent away for five years, McKenna is determined to do what's right for her and baby TJ, which means putting her mistakes—namely Trey—behind her, and move on.

When Trey is released early, he returns to Marietta determined to beg McKenna's forgiveness and become the father TJ needs him to be, only to discover that he's too late. McKenna's marrying local insurance agent Lawrence Joplin in a candlelight Christmas wedding.

Or is she?

Once again, Trey risks everything, but this time it's for love....and the memory of one perfect Christmas together as a family.

From the Author

If you've read my books before, you know I love connected stories, and have written numerous series featuring families for Harlequin Presents, Grand Central Publishing and BerkleyBooks. The Taming of the Sheenans, is my brand new series about six powerful wealthy brothers from Marietta, Montana and boy oh boy do these men know how to take over a scene and own the room! The Sheenans are big, tough, rugged men, and as different as the Montana landscape.

xoxo Jane

From the Inside Flap

An Excerpt from The Kidnapped Christmas Bride

He was standing close, very close and she could feel his warmth and his strength. It would be so easy to just lean against him, to absorb his warmth and strength. He'd feel good. He'd feel right. He'd feel like love.

Like home.

She stared up at him, her gaze locking with his, her chest growing heavy, tight.

She wanted him to kiss her.

She wanted him to hold her.

She wanted him to be hers again.

But they'd been down this road before. It hadn't gone well. And the pain of living without Trey when things had gone wrong had been so extreme. The pain was excruciating. It was honestly more than she could bear.

So how did one make it work? How could she love him without constantly worrying, and fearing the worst?

He must have seen her fear and doubts because he clasped her face in his hands, lifting her face to his. His blue eyes "You don't have to know everything, babe. You don't have to solve all the problems of the world tonight. Just live. Just love. Just breathe."

And then his head dropped and his lips covered hers, his lips warm, his breath scented with cinnamon and cider. He kissed her lightly, gently, the pressure just enough to send shivers of pleasure racing up and down her spine.

She reached up, cupping his cheek, fingernails lightly playing against the rough bristles of his beard. He felt so good, his mouth knew hers and she did exactly what he said--she breathed him in, loving him.

It was impossible to be McKenna Douglas without loving Trey Sheenan.

He deepened the kiss, just enough to part her lips, the tip of his tongue tracing the softness of her lower lip and she tingled, growing hot, cold, feeling alive from the top of her head to her tippy toes.

She wanted to tell him she loved him. She wanted to tell him that she'd never stopped loving him but the words wouldn't come. She was still too afraid of giving him the power to break her heart.

Again.
