Dear Clayton and Scott,

I am just finishing up my winter quarter class, "Drugs and Society," in which I used your book, Drugs and Drug Policy. To be honest, I took a chance on the book...My chance was well rewarded. The student feedback on the book was excellent. They thought that you were very even-measured in your presentation, pitched at the right level, and they learned a lot about things they thought they knew, but, alas, did not! Most especially, I also took a chance on including some of the Internet exercises as homework assignments ... and those ended up being a huge hit.... I will be teaching the course again next year and I see no reason why I would not use [Drugs and Drug Policy] again.... I thank you both for a superb job [creating this book]. It certainly made my class better."
