Ariadne hates the life chosen for her, which will leave her unhappy.

"I really don't know where to begin. How about, this is hands down one of the best books I have read this year! This is not an exaggeration. I'm so happy and excited about this book I might ramble in this review Mythology in it, you will find on my bookshelf. So when I found out that this was was a retelling type thing of Theseus I was on board. Another thing you might not know about me is I am a Romance Addict. If there is romance in it I will read it. And this book was bursting with romance, I loved it. Ari was an awesome heroine! She was strong willed and kind hearted. She wasn't whinny so I was never really annoyed with her. If Ari had a problem she had a good cause to have it so it's nice to have a capable heroine who won't annoy the reader every other page. Now Theseus! OH MY GOSH!!! I am saying this now and staking my claim, ladies back off this man is mine. He is officially my top book boyfriend. This guy had it all. He was sweet and strong and handsome and honorable and respectful and protective and an all male alpha-male. This guy made me swoon almost every time he talked. The way he treated Ari was amazing. All he did was respect her and care for her. I would say he was a man before her time, but even men nowadays rarely treat women the way Theseus did. I would suggest this book to anyone who loves a good romance or loves mythology. Where should read this? Anywhere you want as long as you have time to finish the book in one sitting, you will want that I promise.(be warned). I love Greek Mythology. I absolutely adore it, so any book that I can find the has some form of Greek"

Interview on The Book Maven Blog

Being Creative in History Mything You is set on earth, and ancient times. It's not science fiction or fantasy, alternate world. We have human history and the Greek Myths were clues to human thinking, and not real. I remember that. And like Maven, I'm a social studies teacher. Usually I lecture on AP US Government and AP Macroeconomics at a great high school. AP means Advanced Placement and the students take a test in May, where if they pass, they get college credit. AP is my day job. Writing is my dream job. Anyhow last year there was an extra random Honors World History class that I was forced to teach. Panic button hit the first week of school for me. The last time I took a world history course, I'd been in high school myself. My college majors were government and then law school. No where did teaching world history fit into the equation. I had no choice. I found a teacher with power points to help me understand and guide and focused on the subject at hand. Yet I also had all my AP high school seniors which I'm used too. This year I am all AP high school seniors. Every April at our school is called 'hell month.' Why is it hell? Cramming for tests, and not just AP tests. The students spend hundreds of hours testing at the end of the year. School is so not like what I went through in the 1990s. It's test centric. This meant in April, I had to find a way to focus on my testing seniors, without losing my one random freshman class into nothing. April for the freshman became, let's write the first chapter of our history based novels. We focused on writing and comprehension, which are what they are tested on anyhow. We read our chapters, critiqued, and had fun at the same time. A few of my former students are future writers or could be if they tried. I wrote the first chapter for them. I had a friend critique or should I say butcher my chapter to show creative feedback to my class. (I had to cut a few words from the word files to not scandalize a class.) The myth had been meant to educate on constructive criticism and to show even I make mistakes. I wrote it by my complex's pool on a Sunday morning. (In Miami, hot is normal.) I hadn't wanted to stop writing. Once I added in Ari, and wasn't sharing aloud in a classroom, things could heat up the way I wanted them too. Theseus still had to be young, and on his epic adventure. Ari had to be modern and fresh. I wanted to write this story. And I didn't want to take the setting of pre-human history out. We don't know every detail of ancient life out. We don't know our own human history in detail till much later in time. I love the idea of human history having mythological creatures running around. (And no I don't believe it anymore than I believe the hot Greek guy on Ancient Aliens with the hair, but I watch anyhow.) Stories after stories are set in either the future, medieval or Regency England. At least those that I enjoy reading are. Yet no stories took place in the time frame of myths and men take my fancy. Don't get me wrong, I love and admire Mr. Darcy. I love stories about Dragons or epic quests. I love video games where I get to choose how to proceed (RPG), comic books, and stories of love. To me love stories told in Ancient Athens should not be left to the literary, unhappy endings types. Ari and Theseus deserved better. And they will play a role in the sequel I'm working on now. Hope you enjoyed Mything You.

Review from The Book Maven who asked for the interview: Mything You was a great romance book based on Ancient Greek mythology. It takes in myths such as the Minotaur of Crete and King Midas and his Midas touch. We see even more famous/infamous historical figures such as Agamemnon, Theseus, Hercules, Hippolyta, The Oracle of Delphi and King Aegeus. I loved the incorporation of these ancient myths and ancient history. I liked the story and the characters. Theseus and Ari are two incredible characters that you fall in love with while they are falling in love. I also, enjoyed the accurate depiction of ancient traditions and how the views of women, poor people and rich people and men differ from today's more progressive views. I think Greta Buckle did a terrific job of incorporating history and romance. She thrusts us right into Ancient Greece and makes you not want to leave until you meet a hero of your own. I recommend this for anyone interested in a good romance with a little myth thrown in.

About the Author

This was my first published novel. I was so excited to share ancient myths told in my way as a way to break into publishing. I have learned so much since writing this novel, but this still holds a special place in my heart. I hope you enjoy the story as much as I enjoyed writing it.
